

“I’m really a production guy at heart.”

Rick O’Boyle has been with Ross for 29 years, but he spent his first 11 years in manufacturing before moving into technical sales. This experience gave him a deep understanding of the real-world production challenges our customers face every day.

Ross Regional Sales Managers are all full-time, salaried experts who will consider your whole production environment – then suggest the right mixing technology and equipment design to meet your process goals.
